ARRIVAL BY PLANE AT MUNICH AIRPORT

If you arrive at Munich Airport, the best and cheapest way is going by public transport. From Munich Airport, you can take the Suburban-Train (in German: S-Bahn), S8 (black-yellow line) to Munich East Station (in German: Ostbahnhof), see the Munich public transport map.

Trains depart about every 20 minutes during day-time. When you arrive at Munich East Station by Suburban-Train, change the rail platform to the S7 (brown-line) platform and get on the train with one of these destinations: Höhenkirchen-Siegertsbrunn, Aying or Kreuzstraße.

At Höhenkirchen-Siegertsbrunn, get out of the train and give us a call to fetch you up or take the short way by foot. The way from Airport to Axiros takes about one and a half hour.

To reach Axiros from the airport, we recommend a single-day-ticket (Gesamtnetz) for about EUR 11.00 (optional: Partner / Group Ticket (max. 5 persons) for about EUR 20.00). Going to Axiros by taxi is about EUR 70.00.

ARRIVAL BY CAR FROM MUNICH AIRPORT

Take the Airport freeway A92 (in German: Autobahn) to Munich. Change the freeway at the 4th exit in direction to A9 München/Salzburg. After that, change the freeway to A99 direction Salzburg/Innsbruck and drive until the exit Ottobrunn. When you have exited the freeway turn left to direction Höhenkirchen.

Drive along the Rosenheimer Landstraße until the first turning, then turn left. Now turn immediately left, drive along this street and turn right at the second crossing.
